

This homework is for the week of September 13. It is due next Wednesday, September 22. You should read Section 2.7 through the top of page 113 (that is, leaving out the material on infinite limits). You should also read Sections 2.4 and 2.5, although we might not finish Section 2.5 in class until next Monday.

Remember that you can work with other students on homework problems, but you should write up and turn in your own solutions.

There is a test next Friday, September 24. The material on this homework marks the end of what will be covered on that test.
